Code decision: there is not a pagename system that accommodates the old style code and desired new style. Code either needs to be re-written first, or SHC will need to work with contractor who is familiar with wiki and can assist in archiving / reorganization as data is ported over to new style.

In general, ensuring that the creation / revision of pages is legible requires close attention. There are many decision points: (when do you make a new page vs revise an old one? how do you look at all versions of the 'pet policy' over time? will page indexing need to change as a result of new organization of Code? how will this be archived?)
